A Bourbon Anecdote.
Senator John J. Crittenden used to tell this anecdote to illustrate the fidelity of his people to the "wine of the country."

A leading politician of the State (Kentucky), stopping for the night at the house of a countryman in one of the southeastern counties, found the entertainment he received all the more satisfactory because of a barrel of very respectable whisky having been just brought in. Returning a month afterward from an electioneering tour, and given a drink, he remembered the host with some impatience, that only a month ago he had a full barrel in his pantry. The look that preceded the answer to this reminder, was composed of surprise and recollection.

"Look here, my friend, do you expect one barrel of whisky to last all day, and especially when a man's got a wife and six children, and the cow's gone dry, and they've got no milk?"

A New Bloomer.
The New York Star has this startling intelligence:

The fashionable dressmakers of Paris have invited a modification of the bloomer costume, which recommends itself to all ladies who have been annoyed by the effects which "pullbacks" and "dribbles" have been upon their free pedestrianism. This invention is a pair of trousers, thickly padded and quilted, and falling in a wide flounce over each foot. The two legs of these trousers—if we may be allowed the expression—are united in front by a skirt which presents all the appearance of an ordinary petticoat. But on the reverse part, so to speak, no skirt is worn, and a lady's dress may now sit as tightly as she pleases, without incommencing her movements.

Life in South America.
New York Sun
Life at present in the South African diamond fields is not agreeable. Hundreds of miners, unable to get work, tramp from place to place, and finally lapse into beggary. Money is very scarce, and very few miners, even with nominal means, can leave the place. Fever abounds, and the hospitals are crowded. Vegetables have run up to starvation prices. Small cabbage are worth nearly a sovereign apiece, and potatoes fetch twenty-five cents per pound.

UNCLE BEN JO'S

GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN PANACEA.

UNCLE BEN JO was born in Boston in 1800. Being a botanist, he effected many wonderful cures with roots and herbs. In 1846 he went to South America to study botany, and while there accidentally made his great discovery. The natives of this country were quite familiar with it, and had always supposed it to be a poisonous herb, which they used for the purpose of keeping snakes away from their towns or houses. This they did by laying it in a circle about the same as a proper distance off. This herb, Uncle Ben Jo, as well as the natives, considered a very obnoxious and poisonous one, and when green and fresh it threw off a very disagreeable and repulsive odor. The herb grows about two feet high, and about eight inches of the top part of its stalk is leafless, and this part over and hangs downward perpendicularly, and from its curved neck to its end it increases in size, and on the end of the same is a large, bumpy-looking ball, which stalk and ball, in this hanging position, looks precisely like the tongue of a bell. Hence Uncle Ben Jo named it the Bell Tongue Plant. In South America this herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country, and the natives there call it "Zar Zar Mono." It is a wonderful cure of kidney and liver diseases, also dyspepsia, neuralgia and rheumatism. We have a whole library full of testimonials. Sold by OSBURN & SHOEMAKER, Reno, Nev.

OUR COUNTY FATHERS.

The law governing the duties of County Commissioners is very defective. The clause providing for their pay is so worded that these worthy County Fathers are induced to devote only twelve days in the year to all county affairs. They consequently make many mistakes.

The law should allow them no more than $10 per day, the whole sum not to exceed $600 for any one year.

It takes Messrs. Frey, Lodge and Kinney the whole year to attend to their own business. Yet the county affair can be attended to in twelve days.

Does anybody pretend to think that Mr. Frey would have allowed $915 to any man who worked for him without seeing that the work had been done?

Would he, in the first place, hire a man on his ranch, to do that which was entirely unnecessary and pay him $900 for the job.

These things increase the tax levy, already large enough, and hence we say, the Commissioners should have more time and do business for the county as they do for themselves.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Congress will reassemble next Monday, the 5th of December. The indications are that it will be one of the liveliest sessions Washington has seen for many years. The entire organization of the House will have to be reconstructed. The admission of Dakota as a State will be pressed. There will be in addition a vast amount of routine business.

The Tariff convention now in session in New York is largely attended. Senator Miller of New York is Chairman. A letter was received from Secretary Blaine calling attention to the union of sentiment among the States on the subject of protection, and to the indifferent encouragement offered to American shipping.

They held a consultation over Guiteau the other day in Washington and came to no conclusion. Send him out here and let us feel of his bumps. There are 601 doctors who would join.

The report of the Naval Advisory Board recommends the construction of thirty-eight unarmed cruising vessels and a number of arms, torpedo gunboats and torpedo boats.

Nevada City lost $2,000 on the electric light experiment. San Jose was also victimized. The electric light as at present used won't do.

Assassin C. J. Guiteau declares that he is a member of the firm of Jesus Christ & Co. Why don't judge Cox thunder?

Sarah Bernhardt Mobbed.
 VIENNA, Austria, November 30.
 While driving home from the theater in Podmolitz, where the anti-Semitic riots occurred recently, Sarah Bernhardt's carriage was stoned by a mob. On the following day an anti-Semitic riot occurred, the pretext being that Sarah the Jewess had plundered the people.

The position of Sarah Bernhardt, who is at present starring at Odessa, is anything but enviable. The mob insults her whenever she ventures out, on account of her Jewish origin, and it has been found necessary for ten constables to serve her as body guard. Numerous arrests have been made in connection with this curious affair.

WASHINGTON, November 30.

Upon the opening of Court to-day Guiteau was taken directly to the witness box. Witness was asked by Scoville to identify several papers. Guiteau then gave his ideas concerning the religious tenets of the Onida Community. Witness continued to say 1868 instead of 1878, and his attention being called to it, explained: "I don't feel very well to-day; my brain don't work just right. It is probably owing to the rain."

GUITEAU BELIEVES IN A HELL.

Guiteau then resumed the narrative of his experiences in trying to lecture. On one occasion he tried to lecture against Bob Ingersoll, who was to deliver a lecture against hell, while he (witness), proposed to lecture on the existence of a hell. While he found, however, people very ready to pay fifty cents to hear there was no hell, they would not pay a cent to hear that there was a hell.

The witness was asked to identify a book handed him, and said: "Oh, yes, that's my revised work called 'Truth,' a companion book to the Bible. I have not seen it since it was taken from me when I was arrested."

Witness then desired to read a passage, and read a page or two, descriptive of the trials of Apostle Paul, in endeavoring to introduce Christianity.

"That was just my case," said Guiteau, striking his fist upon the desk. "I strove to enlighten the world just as Paul did. I had no money, and no friends, and I had just about as rough a time as Paul had."

Witness went to New York from Boston on the steamer Stonington, and when she struck Narragansett thought his time had come then, but it hadn't. Witness wrote his speech for Garfield against Hancock in the public library at Boston. It was originally intended for Grant, as he, witness, supposed Grant would be nominated at Chicago. After Garfield was nominated it had to be all worked over.

When in New York the witness called on General Arthur to offer his services in the campaign. He also called at Republican headquarters and saw all the big men. They were glad to see him. He consulted with Governor Jewell, General Arthur and others. They were friendly, but told him they must have men of big reputation like Grant and Conkling to do the speaking.

GUITEAU AND GARFIELD.

Witness added: "I was on free and easy terms with Arthur, Jewell and the rest of them." Witness made his first application for office soon after General Garfield's election. He called on General Garfield at the White House. "After Garfield was at leisure I shook hands with him and handed him my speech, on which was written 'Paris Consularship.' He knew me at once. I left him reading the speech, and that was the only controversy I ever had with President Garfield."

I wish to state here that my getting office or not getting office had nothing whatever to do with my removing the President. That was an act of inspiration, and was done as a political necessity. Witness then stated his experiences at the State department, and his interviews with Secretary Blaine, described as he termed it, the "modus operandi of getting at the Secretary of State." Witness described his last interview with Secretary Blaine, who rather hurt his feelings by his rather abrupt manner, which was so in contrast with his previous cordiality. Witness then determined to see the President, and with considerable exhibition of excitement he related his efforts to see Garfield.

The witness continued: The party was at loggerheads, and I got very much worried over it. I wrote several notes to the President telling him that something must be done, but he paid no attention to it. I kept worrying over the political situation, and I knew this nation was coming to grief.

GUITEAU'S INSPIRATION.

Witness was then asked as to the inspiration which he said impressed him to remove the President, and replied: "The inspiration, as I understand it, is when a man's mind is taken possession of by a Supreme power; when he acts outside of himself." Witness then desired to read from a printed slip, purporting to be an interview with the prisoner giving his theory on the subject. Counsel for the prosecution objected. The Court ruled against the use of printed slips, and Guiteau resumed.

Suddenly on Wednesday evening, after Conkling's resignation, he thought if President Garfield was out of the way all would go well. He tried to shake it off, but it grew, and in a fortnight's time it had become a fixed resolve. He had never doubted, since that time, about the 1st of June, that he was inspired. He prayed and prayed, asking God if Garfield were not to be thus removed, to get rid of him in some other way.

"The removal was necessary to save the nation from ruin. I knew the Lord employed me because he always employs the best material. I felt that the Lord wanted me to do it to advertise my book." No allusion was made by witness to the shooting.

AFTER RECESS.

Guiteau said he believed in special providence, and had no concern about his personal safety. He felt the Lord and Government would take care of him. The Lord, he added, is no fool. He uses the best means.

Scandal in Politics—Kasson's Divorce Suit.

WASHINGTON, November 30.

Within twenty-four hours a feeling of bitterness has entered into the Speakership contest. It has been said all along that there was only one candidate in the east, and the hope of the east in selecting a speaker rested largely upon the fact of the multiplicity of candidates in the west. Mr. Reed, of Maine, however, is making a much more vigorous push than any one supposed he could do, and, as a natural result, he has divided the New England delegation with Mr. Hiscok, so that the east now has two candidates, as against the two leading candidates of the west, Kasson and Keifer. Reed's friends are making a bitter fight against Kasson for some reason or other, and they are using covertly the facts brought out in the unhappy divorce proceedings that took place some years ago when Mr. Kasson was first Assistant Postmaster-General. That whole affair was very unfortunate, and Kasson's friends say the matter has been brought out in previous canvasses in Iowa against him, and that the people of that State have acquitted him of any wrong, that he was the victim throughout, and that his marriage was a very unfortunate one, and the divorce became an absolute necessity. These matters are not discussed in the public prints here, but as they are continually in the mouths of members in opposition to Mr. Kasson, the subject becomes public property.

The enemies of Mr. Kasson have procured a copy of the wife's bill in the divorce proceedings, and think that they can use it with great effect. Senator Frye, of Maine, who is taking a part in the fight against Kasson, says there is no question of Mr. Kasson's ability, but he imputes his honesty, and says with great vehemence that he could not be trusted with the fortunes of the party; that he might betray it in an emergency. He has also worked upon the feelings of some of the New England members so that Hall, of New Hampshire, has said he will not vote for Kasson if he is nominated by the caucus. This is hardly probable, however. The members who are working against Kasson to-day, concede that unless they can injure his standing and credit as an honest man he will receive the nomination of the Republican caucus on Saturday.

Precaution Against Contagious Diseases.

WASHINGTON, November 30.

In consequence of the alarm caused in some portions of the West by the reported spreading of smallpox, Acting Postmaster-General Hutton has issued an order to the effect that where a Postmaster receives official information from the Health Officer of any ports or towns that the mail matter received is liable to communicate contagious disease, it shall be his duty to refuse to accept such mail matter. The mail returned shall be held until the prohibition is removed, and not forwarded to its destination until properly fumigated.

Only Two Probable Cabinet Changes.

NEW YORK, November 22.

A Tribune Washington special says: There is excellent reason to believe there will be only two Cabinet changes in December. The Secretaryship of State and Attorney-Generalship. Frelinghuysen will certainly have the former. Folger will retain the Treasury, and Conkling will accept of no Cabinet position.

The Way They Treat Bank Thieves at Kansas.

HUNNEWELL, Kansas, Nov. 30.

The excitement at Caldwell still continues at fever heat. Threats are made, and will be carried out, that Danford must settle up before tomorrow or die. At Hunnewell the cashier, Mr. Bowers, settled up with the depositors with collaterals, real estate, etc., and paid up within $3,000 of the indebtedness. This course has given satisfaction to every one. Deposits at Caldwell were about $50,000. As all the collaterals, books, etc., were removed to Newton, it is impossible to tell how far they will go towards paying up. Danford has offered to pay a part, but the depositors refuse to settle. A heavy guard watches Smith and Danford. The feeling against the latter is greatly aggravated by the fact that he had assigned all his real estate to Colonel Hood of Emporia on Saturday night, that he offered his guards $1,000 each while being brought back to let him escape, and the removal of Caldwell's property from the bank on Saturday, which Smith took with him to Newton, although deposits were received up to the last minute. At a meeting of the committee a determined man was sent after F. A. Tanner, with instructions to bring him at all hazards. Tanner is thought to have something to do with the removal of the collaterals.

The Postal Telegraph.

NEW YORK, November 30.

The Herald says: A number of capitalists held a meeting at Delmonico's for the purpose of organizing the Postal Telegraph Company scheme, of which James R. Keene was said to be the leader. It was resolved to build and equip a line to Chicago at once. The Company owns a patent for making a compound steel and copper wire which is claimed to have great conductivity, and it will use autographic duplex instruments capable, it is claimed, of transmitting 1,000 words per minute both ways. One million dollars was subscribed last evening to build the Chicago line.
